Headline:
Largely dry and cloudy today. Rain, possibly heavy, early Friday.

Today:
A largely dry but cloudy day, with the odd patch of drizzle or isolated shower possible, particularly later in the day. Occasional breaks in the cloud likely, giving sunny spells at times. Noticeably less cold than recent days. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Tonight:
The evening and night starting dry with clear spells. The early hours will see a band of cloud and rain, heavy at times, moving down from the north. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Friday:
The overnight rain is expected to stall over the south of the country all day, though it will likely ease and break up. Elsewhere heavy cloud with scattered showers. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Turning colder again this weekend with coastal showers, whilst inland areas should remain drier and sunnier. Monday is looking dry with a mix of cloud and sunny spells.
